San-Lee Sunrise Rotarian Leslie Cox Cox introduced Cortney McCullough, Outreach Coordinator for the Lee County Partnership for Children, for a program describing how the Partnership and the Dolly Parton Imagination Library partner to improve childhood literacy in Lee County.

Leslie Cox introduced Cortney McCullough, Outreach Coordinator for the Lee County Partnership for Children, for a program describing how the Partnership and the Dolly Parton Imagination Library partner to improve childhood literacy in Lee County. By reading regularly with children during their preschool years, we can give them the biggest boost toward a successful education they will ever get. Children receive a new book each month at no cost until they reach five years of age, thanks to the Lee County Partnership for Children and Dolly Parton. For more information on this program contact Lee County Partnership for Children, 502 Carthage Street, Sanford, NC 27330 or phone (919) 774-9496. Businesses, organizations or individuals who would care to donate funds to support this gift to our children may make contact at the same address.
